

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS IN RICHMOND STORES FOR FAIR VISITORS.

SHOWS CITY'S GROWTH.

Miller & Rhoads' Becoming One of America's Biggest Stores.

The growth of the Miller & Rhoads store is one evidence of Richmond's prosperity that visitors will not be slow to appreciate.

To-day it is the largest store in Virginia. Within a few months, when the additional new under way are completed, it will be one of the largest stores of America.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful merchandise are on display in the big Broad Street and Sixth Street stores. On the main floor are found the rich and handsome silks, velvets and dress goods—the best weavers of Europe and America.

Smoky laces from Scotland, Ireland and the Continent. Beautiful cretonnes in cotton wash goods. The finest collection of women's shoes to be found south of the Potomac River. Women's fashions that will suit the pocketbooks and ideas of every woman in Richmond.

Trousers, neckwear, bedding and other household furnishings that women delight in—almost bewildering variety being found in this store.

Men folks are not forgotten either, as the men's furnishings part of the Miller & Rhoads store is equal to that of the best in the country.

In the basement one's eyes are almost dazzled by the glittering array of cut glass and fine table silverware, together with a variety of other goods. The more private side of house-furnishing is not forgotten, and the largest department in the city devoted to kitchen utensils will be found under this part of the store. Stationery of all kinds appeals to the visitor to stop and view them.

Step off the elevator at the second floor, and you enter the hair and coat department, where every woman who visits the store will find what she needs. The most complete in every way. The exhibition of ready-made garments of all kinds is a most comprehensive one. The evening frocks, which women are wearing particularly well at the present time.

The women's underwear, corsets and intimate wear departments are also on this floor, and of a truly it may be said that no store outside of Philadelphia or New York has anything like these departments in size and scope.

The art department, on the same floor, is again with beautiful creations in all sorts of fancy needlework, including the most complete in every way. The exhibition of ready-made garments of all kinds is a most comprehensive one. The evening frocks, which women are wearing particularly well at the present time.

The third floor of the store is devoted principally to children and floor coverings, and a worthy showing it is that will be found there.

It is difficult to write about the beauty of these things as the shades and colors are so numerous in many cases, as the patterns are intricate and delicate, that it is almost impossible to do justice to the store in the brief space of the article.

In other words, the Miller & Rhoads store is a store of interest in Richmond that no visitor can afford to miss.

FASHIONABLE APPAREL.

Showing at Kaufmann's, Fourth and Broad Streets.

Extending visitors to the Fair and House Show will find it pleasant and profitable shopping at Kaufmann's this week.

The writer took an interesting stroll through the store yesterday reviewing their magnificent autumn apparel display.

The main floor exhibits are truly beautiful. All those little novelties in jewelry, ladies' goods, ribbons, neck ties, etc., so dear to the fashion follower, meet you on every side.

Shown on the main floor, too, are hundreds of charming ready-to-wear hats, and it is surprising what a stylish model you can find there for a few dollars.

The second floor exhibits are in keeping with the fashion follower, meet you on every side.

AT REINACH'S

Broad-Street Millinery Establishment.

To the Ladies: A display of unusual interest to the fair sex is this establishment, which is devoted entirely to the showing of ladies' head wear. When you consider the average millinery store of ordinary dimensions and compare in size this immense building of three entire floors, used entirely for the production of ladies' hats, you can easily realize that there must be something in this production.

In the employ here are nearly 50 young ladies, artists in this special line. The first floor is used entirely for the display of millinery materials and ready-to-wear hats.

The second floor is used entirely for the display of ladies' trimmed hats and ready-to-wear hats. The third floor is devoted to workroom and workroom purposes.

This establishment is truly one of the great shopping spots of Richmond, as nothing has been left undone looking principally to the comfort of their patrons and friends. In looking through the store, one is struck by the variety of styles, and the following list is a partial one.

The Jane Harding model is in the top of the line. The simplicity of the design, the particular feature of this hat. It is elegant with natural coloring in shades of brown, tan, and cream, and a soft rose shade.

In black is shown the most striking shape in satin, moire and velvet, soft plumes, with now and then a touch of color in the form of French flowers, always small, practical and refined. The hats are shown in abundance, and a call will surely be made.

Nothing plumes in all the fancy shades, with French felt to match any person shown down, can be seen here in the store. The hats are shown in abundance, and a call will surely be made.
